The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 19-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Mitani et al (US 4,327,145).

Rejection is maintained for reason of record with following response.

Again, with respect to “consisting essentially of” in claims, the recitation of “consisting essentially of” alone cannot overcome the rejection based on the art reciting “comprising”. See In re De Lajarte, 337 F.2d 870, 143 USPQ 256 (CCPA, 1964); When applicant contends that modifying components in the reference composition are excluded by the recitation of “consisting essentially of”, applicant has the burden of showing the basic and novel characteristics of his composition – i.e. a showing that the introduction of these components would materially change characteristics of applicant’s invention.

General statement alone in specification does not overcome the rejection without actual showing(s). Besides, any limitation such as without thickening agent of specification is not claimed limitation. Applicant asserts that isocyanate is undesirable due to health concern, but the properties discussed in specification are directed to good shelf life and viscosity control and thickening (page 12). Furthermore, the instant claim 26 recites various additives, and thus, applicant's assertion that said isocyanate is excluded (even though other additives are included in the instant invention) has little probative value.

Claims 19-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Parker, Jr. (US 3,429,950).

Rejection is maintained for reason of record with following response.

Contrary to applicant's assertion, omission of "quinine modifier" is not needed in Parker, Jr. Again, with respect to "consisting essentially of" in claims, the recitation of "consisting essentially of" alone cannot overcome the rejection based on the art reciting "comprising". See In re De Lajarte, 337 F2d 870, 143 USPQ 256 (CCPA, 1964); When applicant contends that modifying components in the reference composition are excluded by the recitation of "consisting essentially of", applicant has the burden of showing the basic and novel characteristics of his composition – i.e. a showing that the introduction of these components would materially change characteristics of applicant's invention.

General statement alone in specification does not overcome the rejection without actual showing(s). Besides, any limitation such as without thickening agent of specification is not claimed limitation. Furthermore, the instant claim 26 recites various additives, and thus, applicant's assertion that said "quinine modifier" is excluded (even though other additives are included in the instant invention) has little probative value.

Claims 19-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Parker, Jr. (US 3,429,950) in view of Parker, Jr. (US 3,300,544), JP 54120675 A or JP401251791 A.

Rejection is maintained for reason of record with above response under Parker, Jr. (US 3,429,950).

Again, contrary to applicant's assertion, omission of any component is not needed in Parker, Jr., and applicant failed to show otherwise.

Claims 2-4, 10-14 and 19-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Mitani et al (US 4,327,145) or Parker, Jr. (US 3,429,950) in view of Mathur et al (US 6,063,864) or Lane et al (US 5,985,785) or JP 54120675 A.

Rejection is maintained for reason of record with above response under Parker, Jr. (US 3,429,950) and Mitani et al (US 4,327,145).

Again, contrary to applicant's assertion, omission of any component is not needed in Mitani et al and Parker, Jr., and applicant failed to show otherwise.

Furthermore, the instant claims 10 and 26 recite various additives, and thus, applicant's assertion that additional component of Mitani et al and Parker, Jr. is excluded (even though other additives are included in the instant invention) has little probative value.

Contrary to applicant's assertion, JP teaches the use of irradiation in partial curing (crosslinking) of polyester to B-stage in abstract. Furthermore, JP is recited to show the art well known electron beam source, not for a composition, and ane et al teach that one can adjust dosage conditions at bottom of col. 8..

Mitani et al and Parker, Jr. teach partially crosslinked B-stage polyesters, and thus use of well known electron beam sources of secondary references in partial curing of the composition (or further curing thereof) taught by Mitani et al or Parker, Jr. would be a prima facie obviousness since one would know how to adjust the dosage of irradiation in order to obtain a partially cured polyester absent showing otherwise.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
